

Marginalia

How are you doing in times of Corona?

Do you sometimes feel that you should eventually undergo a change of perspective?

Look at things from a different standpoint?

Are you depressed about the latest developments?

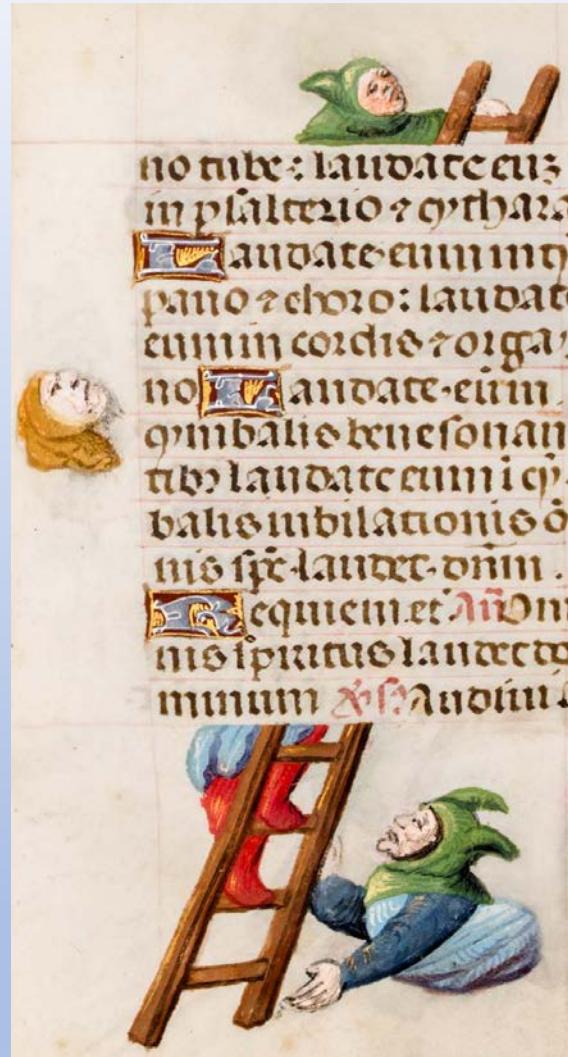

Sad, frustrated,
confused, anxious?

Do you miss the company of good friends and conversations?

We feel the same and understand your distress.

Time is stretching out as looooong as a chewing gum.

Your head starts turning and you don't even know where it is...

Here????

Or rather there?

Finally you start spinning yarn...

Big time!

Or you see white mice. Actually, if there had ever been mice on this image, we have a very uneasy feeling about where they ended up....

Some of us are really sick of all these problems.

It is not even possible to go to a hairdresser's in order to get a new creative haircut.

No wonder, you feel restricted in your freedom of movement.

Sometimes you just want to break
free and do something crazy.

But remember: Safety first! So please keep your distance from your loved ones.

Because currently, distance is a sign of deep affection.....

Slowly by slowly you realise what we are aiming at, don't you?
Our advice: Look at medieval manuscripts!

They are so beautiful and they lift your spirit.
Honestly! O.k., this sort of boat trip may not be feasible in reality nowadays: too little space for maintaining minimum distance!

What about a horse ride in the woods? Of course alone!

And please beware that no one takes a picture of you head on. That really looks somewhat silly and visibly burdens your soul.

Simple, rural, outdoor entertainments are recommendable.

If you want to play hide and seek,
please do not all choose the same tree, folks! Minimum distance!!!

Eat healthy, it improves your endogenous defence!

Play music that is good for your soul. But don't jangle your neighbours' nerves.

They might strike back.

In these days you could even consider wearing your most daring hat. Nobody has time to get in a lather abour your latest cheesiness.

This is not a recommendable leisure activity...

This neither – not really...
Unless someone literally bought
ALL the toilet paper just before you entered the shop....

Our suggestion: Look at the „Löffelspiel“ (spoon game)! It was popular in the Middle Ages and even today you can heartily laugh about it. And you certainly know: Laughter is the best medicine!

But above all: Stay healthy and full of optimism. We have to stand together in these difficult times. Bring others joy and happiness, you can do it without getting to close physically.
